Abstract:- There are so many studies and analysis had done on Odisha temple Architecture but still some parts are hidden. Many geometrical comparative analysis needs to be done to understand the evolution pattern of the Odisha temple Architecture. Here some analyses are like plain area ratio, relation between height and time of construction; present slenderness ratio, the relationship between width and length of the local build conducted for the same. By conducting such relationship this paper has emphasized on the evolution process of the Odisha Temple Architecture. How these relationships carry on important role in the modern world architecture to build out the different structural and geometrical shape grammar analysis of the urban build form.
